9. CRESSWELL, Lieut S. Gurney

A Series of Eight Sketches in Colour. Together with a Chart of the Route. by Lieut. S. Gurney Cresswell, of the Voyage of H.M.S. Investigator (Captain M'Clure), During the Discovery of the North-West Passage.

Plaistow, West Sussex. The Arctic Press. 1998. elephant folio, facsimile reprint, limited edition of 200 numbered copies, this being #38, the plates are 61.5 x 45cm, (24"x 17.5"), title page, 4p of text, 8 colour plates and 1 map colour plate, issued loose in wrappers with the title repeated on the cover, each plate has the limited statement on the verso, in purpose made glove box with cover label, fine condition 225.00

The colour plates are on acid free heavy stock photo quality paper. These prints by Lt. Cresswell of HMS Investigator were originally published in 1854 and are renowned as the "North-West Passage Prints". These lithographs were remarkably beautiful, the colour is unusual, clear and vivid, displaying the effects of the Arctic light. M'Clure and the crew of the Investigator reached England in 1854, having been the first to traverse the North West Passage.

10. ELLIS, Henry

A Voyage to Hudson's-Bay, by the Dobbs Galley and California, in the Years 1746 and 1747, for discovering a North West Passage; with An Accurate Survey of the Coast, and a short Natural History of the Country. Together with A Fair View of the Facts and Arguments from which the future finding of such a Passage is rendered probable.

London. Printed for H. Whitridge. 1748. 8vo. 19.7cm, The First Edition, xxviii, 336p., with folding engraved frontis map, and 9 engraved plates (including 5 folding), in contemporary full speckled calf, real raised bands, double gilt ruled borders on the boards, new dark crimson label, a fine (no foxing) clean copy 2,000.00

T.P.L. 207. Lane 1161. Sabin 22312. Hill p94.

Ellis served as hydrographer, surveyor & mineralogist on the expedition under Capt. William Moor sent to discover the Northwest passage in 1746. The expedition proved decisively that no such passage from Hudson's Bay existed & contributed to a lapse of British interest in the subject until 1816. Ellis' work provided interesting & valuable information about the customs of the then relatively unknown Esquimaux, observations on the tides, and the 'vagaries of the compass'. Plates depict natural history subjects, Eskimo costume & customs, and views.

"Ellis went as proprietors' agent and scientific specialist with a two ship expedition commissioned to find the Northwest Passage, a hundred years after James' conclusion that such a search was pointless. Ellis' descriptions aroused James Isham to a hostile response, not published until much later (1949)". Waterston p9.

11. FLAG: of the Northwest Territory.

Northwest Territory, Tourism Division, Polar Bear Flag. Silk,. 91 x 183 cm (3ft x 6ft.), with polar bear on blue circle, with tackle for mounting, several small slight stains, very good to fine condition 100.00

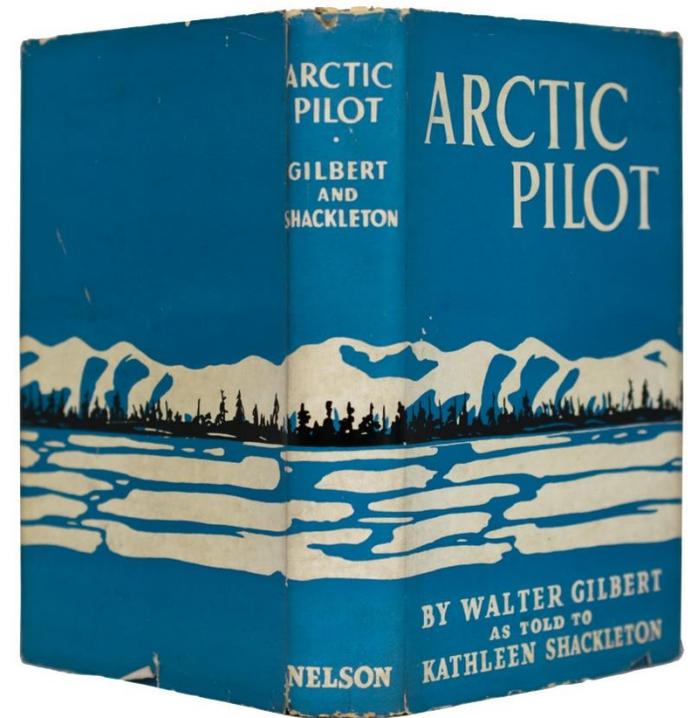

The polar bear is the official logo of the Northwest Territories Tourism Division. Provenance: From a trip in the 1980/90's? by long time Arctic book collector, William (Bill) Hoyt. He sat in the New York State Assembly from 1975 until his death in 1992. An environmentalist he was the Legislature's leading opponent of New York's proposal to purchase hydro power from a Canadian utility that planed to create the energy by flooding a wilderness area in Quebec.

One of the classic journals of North American travel, particularly notable in terms of Arctic exploration. Hearne will always be remembered as the first white man to see the Arctic Ocean. "... - Hearne was in the service of the Hudson's Bay Company in Canada for twelve years. He recorded with copious notes the lives of the Indians and the natural history of the regions seen on his three trips. The exploratory expeditions took him by land from Hudson's Bay to the mouth of the Coppermine River at the Arctic Ocean. This work was published from his journals three years after his death, and describes as well the discovery of Great Slave Lake and the impossibility of finding the Northwest Passage through Hudson's Bay.

14. HEARNE, Samuel

A Journey from Prince of Wales's Fort in Hudson's Bay to The Northern Ocean undertaken by order of the Hudson's Bay Company for the discovery of Copper Mines, A North West Passage, &c. in the Years 1769, 1770, 1771 & 1772. ## 18. McDOUGALL, George F.

The Eventful Voyage of H.M. Discovery Ship "Resolute" to the Arctic Regions in Search of Sir John Franklin and the Missing Crews of H.M. Discovery Ships "Erebus" and "Terror", 1852, 1853, 1854. To which is added an account of her being fallen in with by an American whaler after her abandonment in Barrow Straits, and of Her Presentation to Queen Victoria by the Government of the United States.

London. Longman, Brown, Green, Longmans... 1857. 8vo, 22.2cm, The First Edition, xl,530,[2],24,p. ads., & ads on endpapers, with 8 tinted lithographic plates heightened in colour by hand, and 24 woodcut text illustrations, engraved folding map, in the blind stamped brown cloth, gilt spine titles, original chocolate brown endpapers with ads on the front and rear paste-down endpaper, 19th century engraved armorial bookplate, expertly restored, some occasional slight foxing, in near fine condition, complete with half title and original tissue guards 2,500.00

The 'Resolute', under Capt. Kellett, was part of Belcher's five ship expedition. Leaving one ship, the North Star, at Beechey Island as a base, the other four ships made important explorations as they searched unsuccessfully for Franklin. In May of 1854, convinced that the four ships could not be freed from the ice, Belcher ordered the squadron abandoned. Kellett objected strongly, believing the abandonment premature. Later naval historians have tended to agree with Kellett (cf. DNB). The crews traveled over the ice for two weeks, until they reached the North Star and returned in her to England. The Resolute freed herself from the ice and drifted unharmed for a thousand miles to Baffin Bay, was found and brought to the U.S. by the whaler 'George Henry'. The U.S. Government purchased Resolute and later returned her to England to be presented to Queen Victoria. McDougall's narrative is valuable for its description and attractive plates, including many of the ship, icebergs, etc. He describes how the crew was kept entertained during their wintering in the Arctic, the sledge journeys, encounters with musk oxen, polar bears, etc.

19. NANSEN, Fridtjof

Farthest North. Being the Record of a Voyage of Exploration of the Ship "Fram" 1893-96 and of a Fifteen Months' Sleigh Journey by Dr. Nansen and Lt. Johansen. With an Appendix by Otto Sverdrup.. New York. Harper & Brothers. 1897. 8vo., 24cm, in 2 volumes, the first U.S. edition, 587 & 729 ,4,pp., ads., gravure etched frontis portrait, 16 colour plates, 120 b/w plates, 4 folding colour pocket maps, text illustrations and maps, in the original dark grey cloth, nautical cover designs and titles in gilt and colors, gilt spine titles, some light edge wear, t.e.g. a near fine set in the original publisher's pictorial cloth binding

300.00

Nansen, one of the most significant figures in the history of Arctic exploration, was originally a naturalist. He decided in 1888 to attempt the crossing of Greenland, and with five companions, including Otto Sverdrup, set off in June of that year. The crossing, by small boat, ski and sledge, achieved many important scientific objectives, including meteorological observations, as well as illustrating the ideal methods of Arctic travel. His most important achievements were on the Fram Expedition of 1893-96. He established the nature and drift of the Arctic Ice-pack, having deliberately allowed the ship, built to his own design, to be frozen into the ice. During the expedition, Nansen, with one companion and 3 dog sledges, achieved the highest latitude yet attained (86°14').

20. PARRY, William Edward

Journal of a Second Voyage for the Discovery of a North-West Passage from the Atlantic to the Pacific; performed in the years 1821-22-23, in his Majesty's ships Fury and Hecla, under the orders of Captain William Edward Parry. London. John Murray. 1824. 4to. 27.cm, The First Edition, [5],xxx,571p. errata, complete with 39 engraved maps & plates, (inc. 8 folding maps and landfalls), in quarter tan calf, gilt ruled raised bands, blind stamped border and centre panels decorations, dark crimson morocco labels, marbled boards, some slight foxing but less than usual, a fine attractively bound copy 1,850.00

T.P.L. 1295. Lande 1385. Sabin 58864. A.B. 13142. Smith 7963. Smith 7963. Hill p226. Throughout the whole of this work, the characteristics of the Eskimaux, and incidents of intercourse with them, absorb the attention of the writer. The work is a treatise on aboriginal life rather than a narrative of scientific discoveries. Twenty-two of the plates, from drawings by Captain Lyon, depict the Eskimaux, in costume, at work and play, hunting and fishing, singly and in family or social groups, children `at play'; and are among the most fascinating and charming of their kind.

21. PEARCE, Richard

Marooned in the Arctic. Diary of the Dominion Explorers' Expedition to the Arctic, August to December, 1929. No place, No date. [Toronto. "the earliest expedition made by a white man in this direction. His investigations, although pursued at so early a period of Arctic exploration, were remarkable for their accuracy; Sir John Franklin more than once expressed his surprise at being able to corroborate their correctness in his own explorations. Some Indian vocabularies are included. (Sabin).

Mackenzie's journals recount his two expeditions undertaken on behalf of the North West Company in their attempt to break the Hudson's Bay Company's monopoly of the fur trade. The first expedition, in 1779, from Fort Chipewyan on Lake Athabaska down what is now known as the Mackenzie River to the Arctic constitutes the first trip to the Arctic from the Canadian Prairies. The second, in 1792-93, from Fort Chipewyan over the Rocky Mountains by the Peace and Fraser Rivers to the Pacific, is distinguished as the first overland expedition to reach the Pacific, north of Mexico. The maps are the earliest of certain parts of Canada. Also included is a lengthy account of the development of the fur trade in the North West, generally attributed to the author's cousin, Roderick Mackenzie

2,000.00

A classic Canadian book. Mrs. Traill notes in the preface; "With a patriotic pride in her native land, Mrs. F. was desirous that the book should be entirely of Canadian production, without any foreign aid, and thus far her design has been carried out..."

Lande S2221. Also cf. Waters p643 & Dionne II-1360 for the first edition (1868).

Traill's strengths as a writer are her clarity, firm sense of identity, optimistic spirit, and above all her attention to detail, which is particularly evident in her observation of nature.

While her interest in flora and fauna is clearly shown in The Backwoods of Canada, it was only after her husband's death and Catharine's removal to Lakefield, Ontario that she had the opportunity to focus that attention. Canadian Wild Flowers (Montreal 1868) combined her text and the painting of Susanna Moodie's daughter, Agnes (Moodie) Fitzgibbon.. Toye p.793.

Agnes Dunbar Moodie, eldest daughter of Sheriff Moodie of Belleville, Ontario and of his wife, Susannah (one of the well known Strickland sisters, q.v.,) married in 1850, Charles FitzGibbon, barrister-at-law, eldest son of Colonel James FitzGibbon, the "hero of Beaver Dams." She survived him and married secondly, in 1870, Lieutenant Colonel Brown Chamberlain, M.P., C.M.G., who became Queen's Printer of Canada, and who died 13 July, 1897. With her first husband Mrs. Chamberlain had four children - one son and three daughters (one of the latter being Mary Agnes FitzGibbon, the author of a life of her grandfather, Colonel FitzGibbon, entitled A Veteran of 1812). By her second husband she had one daughter, Mrs. Badgley.

As the illustrator of Canadian Wildflowers and other works, she well maintained the artistic traditions of her family. Miss Sanford (Godey's Magazine, July, 1897) records that Mrs. Chamberlain's Canadian Wild Flowers was the first illustrated book of its kind published in Canada. With the exception of the actual printing of the letterpress and the lithographs from the stone, it was the work of one pair of hands. Each illustration had to pass through her hands not less than sixteen times, and when the three editions were completed she had coloured fifteen thousand plates. Mrs. Chamberlain also drew on lithographing stone the set of Canadian fungi (edible) which was eventually published by the Geological Survey of Canada. She was also the illustrator of Mrs. Traill's Studies of Plant Life.
